

Duane Hill has been coaching volleyball since the early 1990's. This experience includes work at the college, Junior Olympic and high school levels.

Hill began working with Junior Olympic volleyball in the Atlanta area in 1993 coaching teams between the ages of 14 and 18. This experience began with Volleyball Atlanta, which transformed into A5 Volleyball, one of the top programs in the Southeast. He has coached a number of teams that have qualified for the National Championships.

The 1997 team was the first 18-year old team from Atlanta, Ga., to qualify for Nationals at a Junior Olympic Qualifying tournament.

Additionally, he has coached at Milton High School (1993-95) and the Marist School (1996-99, 2005). During the five years at Marist, Hill was involved with three State Championship teams and two State runner-up teams.

Hill worked as the assistant coach at Brenau College in 2004.

In the Chattanooga area, Hill has been the head coach at Notre Dame High School (2007) and Ringgold High School (2009), while also working with the Choo Choo City Volleyball Club. He took Notre Dame to the District Championships in Tennessee and Ringgold to the Elite Eight in Georgia.

Coach Hill has been part of the UTC Volleyball coaching staff for the past 8 years.

Throughout Hill's coaching career, he has assisted at summer camps at Georgia Tech, Georgia and Emory. Hill has additionally organized and instructed at many high school camps. Hill has also trained players individually and as a group as a private trainer since 1992. He has conducted one-on-one training and taught in conjunction with the Suwanee Sports Academy and VolleyPerformance Atlanta. He currently co-leads the VolleyPerformance program for North Georgia and Chattanooga.

Hill is married to the former Angie Schweikhardt. The couple has four daughters, Madision (24), Jazmine (23), Kennedy (14) and Baylee (14) and reside in Ringgold, Ga.
